More Licks

Let's put our theory into practice with two awesome licks! Both of these licks are based on C blues. The idea behind earning these specific licks is to give you two super practical, useable examples of the theory that you can immediately use in your blues improvisation:

“

Just as with our first two licks, take your time with these! I promise you that taking more time over them

UNIT 3

Major & Minor Scale

In unit 3 we will be coming back to our lead guitar playing and talking in depth about the major and minor crossover in the blues. We can use both the major pentatonic of the key, and the minor pentatonic of the key to create tasty licks!

Dan

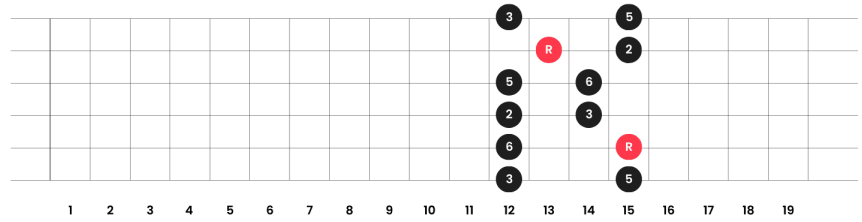

Lick 3

Our third lick uses minor pentatonic box 3 and major box 4, focusing more so on the major predominantly, with a simple reference to the b3rd from the minor making the difference:

C Minor Pentatonic Box 3

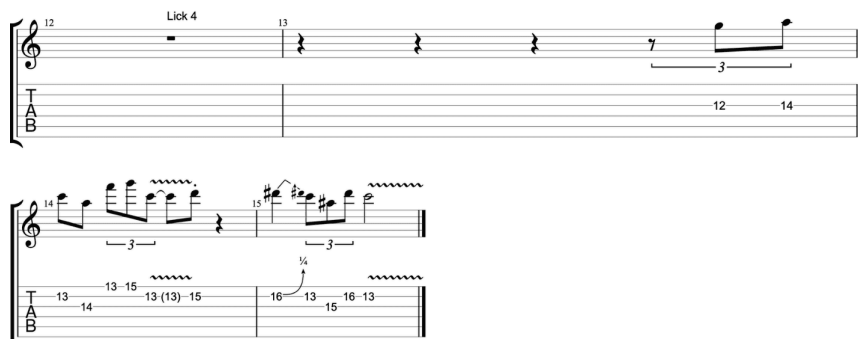

C Major Pentatonic Box 4

Try to align the tab with the scale boxes, exactly as Dan does in the video. Be sure to take the extra step and do this process, otherwise you'll simply be parrot fashion learning, without understanding what you are playing.

Lick 4

Our fourth lick uses minor pentatonic box 3 and major box 4, focusing more so on the major predominantly, with a full switch the minor pentatonic at the end.

How to learn licks

If you're to quite sure how to get the most out of the licks you are learning, then head over to the

How To Learn Licks mini course, where Dan breaks it down for you!
