Lead Techniques

UNIT 2 • LESSON 3 << PREVIOUS NEXT >>

Lead Techniques

Let's take a look at the key techniques that Jack White uses in his soloing. We'll start with his vibrato, which can be very aggressive in his lead playing. As Franco spoke about in the lesson, Jack White loves to add more aggression to his lead style by adding more range and speed to the vibrato. The more range (how wide the vibrato is) and the more speed you have, the more intense and aggressive it sounds. Here's a cool graph...

Alongside this style of vibrato, Jack tends to use a lot of staccato notes. This adds to that urgency in the sound, as they are short and sharp! You need to listen to this to fully understand the differences, so please watch the video to see Franco demonstrate
