Lesson notes Diagrams

Moving Keys

We will now bring in the backing track! So, let's start by talking about the backing track. The chords are as follows:

C for 4 bars, G for 4 bars, D for 4 bars, A for 4 bars, E for 4 bars, B for 4 bars, F# for 4 bars.

This chord progression is based on the circle of fifths, which is a fantastic way to subtly change keys. If you take a look at this diagram first:

For example, the key of C major has zero sharps or flats, but the key of G major only has one sharp. Therefore, when you shift to the key of G major you are only changing one note. This gives you a nice subtle shift and allows you to quite comfortably roll between keys. We'll have more on this in a future course, but this is all the detail we need for now.

C major example...

For your reference, in the fretboard diagrams, we have a C major chord, arpeggio, pentatonic scale box and the diatonic scale box so you've always got somewhere to go from. As you move around the cycle of keys, be sure to move these shapes with you!
