Airports Revisited

We have now done a lot of work with new solos and licks, so our airports idea is going to become even more useful. During this lesson, we will take you through how to apply your new licks using this technique and then how to take it one step further with your five shapes and the linking patterns. It is important that you try these ideas out for yourself, so we have provided a set of backing tracks to ensure you can practice properly.

This is the moment where we dive into experiential learning.
Trying and seeing, being as open as you can. For me, playing around with new licks and

This process, of course, takes time! Please know that and remember that all you have to concern yourself with is showing up and trying. Put the practice time in and this will slowly but surely get there. Remember you have the scales tool in your toolbox too! Have fun playing around with this, and we'll see you for one last lesson in the course.
